Local Festivals in Russia

It is a domestic fact that Russia is famous for the ~~plethora~~ plethora of various festivals. There occurred to be plenty of events in this region. However, I feel like speaking about one of my favourites, which is called Maslennitsa.

This festival is supposed to exist for hundreds of years in Russia and it is celebrated in the end of the winter. Speaking about my hometown, Maslennitsa is celebrated here in the town park and on the central square. These places are always overcrowded during the festival. There exist some specific traditions on Maslennitsa: to burn the dummy and to eat pancakes. You see, people always do their best to achieve breathtaking and festive atmosphere of holiday - that is why Maslennitsa is so popular with native people.

To crown it all I'd like to recommend families to visit this festival. I'm sure it would be an unforgettable experience and Maslennitsa is really worth visiting both for tourists from abroad and from Russia.
